

2. An enzyme may be described as being specific in its activity.

What is meant by this statement?

- A The enzyme is a biological catalyst.
- B The enzyme reduces the activation energy of a reaction by an exact amount.
- C The enzyme will lose its activity if it is heated to 80°C .
- D The enzyme will only catalyse a narrow range of chemical reactions.